

Oakland University – Assistant Professor Position
Department of Counseling

Position: The Department of Counseling at Oakland University, Rochester, Michigan, is seeking applicants for one tenure-track assistant professor faculty position available beginning August 15, 2016. The position will be a full-time appointment with the possibility of Summer teaching. We will begin reviewing applications October 20, 2015 and continue reviewing applications until the position is filled.

Salary: Competitive and dependent upon qualifications and experience.

Responsibilities: Teach and conduct scholarly activities in CACREP accredited master's programs and doctoral program in both mental health and school counseling.

Qualifications: A doctorate or ABD in Counselor Education/Counseling (CACREP or CACREP equivalent); eligibility for Michigan license as a professional counselor; teaching experience; competence in working with students from diverse populations and backgrounds; and a demonstrated ability and/or a strong potential to develop a program of research. Preferred characteristics include strong teaching ability in CACREP core areas and expertise/experience working with children, adolescents and families; leadership qualities and potential in research.

The Department: The Department of Counseling offers a Master of Arts in Counseling with an emphasis in mental health counseling or school counseling. A doctoral program is offered with a choice of the following cognate areas: Mental Health Counseling, Couple and Family Counseling, Child and Adolescent Counseling, Advanced Career Counseling, Addiction Counseling and Student Affairs. Both the Master of Arts and the Doctoral programs are CACREP Accredited. We have a diverse team of interests and experiences and share the commitment to providing excellence in counselor education.

Oakland University: The hilly, wooded campus is located north of Detroit in Oakland County in Southeastern Michigan surrounded by a wide array of school districts, educational and social service agencies. Oakland University is a fast-growing public institution of 20,000 students with baccalaureate, master's, and doctoral programs. It is conveniently located for many social, cultural and recreational activities.

If you have any questions please contact: Dr. James T. Hansen, Department of Counseling, Search Chair (jthansen@oakland.edu) 450E Pawley Hall, School of Education and Human Services, Oakland University, Rochester, MI 48309-4494. Oakland University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and encourages applications from women and minorities. Applicants must submit a cover letter (listing qualifications), a CV, and three letters of reference. Applicants must apply online at the following link: <https://academicjobs.oakland.edu/>.