Clinical Assistant Professor – Counselor Education/Couple and Family Therapy
& Human Development and Family Relations
Job Posting F02889

Job Summary

The School of Education & Human Development at the University of Colorado Denver is seeking nominations and applications for the position of Clinical Assistant Professor in Counselor Education/Couple and Family Therapy and Human Development and Family Relations.

Located in the heart of downtown, CU Denver provides a vibrant, urban research university experience, with academic programs ranging from the liberal arts and sciences to global energy management, music industry studies and criminal justice among eight schools and colleges. The classroom extends into the city as students study, network and build careers in the surrounding business district. CU Denver unites quality academics, ambitious research and creative work, civic consciousness and driven students—all in the lively setting of downtown Denver. Read CU Denver Quick Facts here: http://www.ucdenver.edu/about/WhoWeAre/Documents/CUDenver_facts.pdf.

Major Responsibilities:

- Teach graduate courses in the Counseling Psychology Counselor Education (CPCE) program Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP) core areas, in particular Counselor Education and Couple and Family Therapy.
- Teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the Human Development and Family Relations (HDFR) program.
- Infuse multicultural and diversity issues in all courses.
- Promote the expansion of the program's inclusion of and connection with members of Denver's diverse communities.
- Participate in faculty meetings; provide committee service in the CPCE and HDFR programs in the School of Education and Human Development.
- Must be open to using electronic media for instruction, such as Canvas, as courses at UCD can be offered as face-to-face, hybrid, or online.
